④ Mission of obstetrics and gynecological nursing department 2025-2026

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecological Nursing is committed to preparing competent graduates with strong scientific knowledge and advanced clinical skills to provide safe and comprehensive nursing care for women and their newborns across all stages of life. This is achieved through a dynamic and innovative educational environment that integrates digital transformation, modern teaching strategies, and student-centered learning approaches.

The department also strives to continuously develop students' competencies and enhance the teaching capabilities of faculty members in alignment with quality assurance standards and academic accreditation, fostering critical thinking, clinical excellence, and lifelong learning among graduates.
