

The Department of Medical and Surgical Nursing at the Faculty of Nursing, Benha University, is keen on playing its role with other departments of the Faculty to achieve the vision, mission and goals of the faculty to provide the community with qualified specialists to practice nursing and professional skills.

The Department of Medical-Surgical Nursing at the Faculty of Nursing, Benha University, is considered one of the main pillars for obtaining a Bachelor's degree in Nursing Sciences, through the scientific material it contains that is characterized by nursing concepts and skills based on evidence and competencies.

The Department of Medical Surgical Nursing aims to prepare a student who is skilled in dealing with all cases (health, illness, and critical emergency cases) by providing comprehensive nursing care.

The Department of Medical Surgical Nursing feeds two of the four academic years in the faculty: the first academic year, where they study the Basics of Nursing course according to the credit hour system (new regulations) and the Medical Surgical Nursing 1 course. In the second year: course of medical surgical 2 and Critical Care and Emergency Nursing course

The Department of Medical-Surgical Nursing is of great importance in the research plan of the faculty in order to graduate highly qualified male and female nurses who help to promote the improvement of the health of community members, keep pace with developments in scientific research, and are able to compete in the era of progress in nursing practices locally and globally.
